

The Governor is focused on the business of running the State of Mississippi. His time is spent improving education for our children and getting jobs for our people. Politics will come at the appropriate time. Right now, his priority is the State of Mississippi and providing a better quality of life.