

“I always enjoy talking with, and answering the questions of the young men participating in Boys State,” said Governor Musgrove. “They are very knowledgeable of Mississippi current events and the issues that directly affect their education, communities and families.” “These young men are the leaders of tomorrow, and Boys State gives them a good training ground to the inner workings of government.”