

On Friday, February XX, 2001 the people of XX Mississippi counties experienced treacherous storms that damaged countless homes businesses and property and took the life of one person. The next weekend, Mississippians in counties felt the devastation of a tornado that took the lives and damaged the property and homes of even more of our people. Unfortunately, Mississippi has felt the affects of much dangerous weather including floods, hurricanes, hail, tornadoes and straight-line winds. Following the first round of