

“The people of Virginia deserve more than the politics of the past. Mark Warner and I share a focus of moving our states ahead, and doing more for the people in the areas of education, health care, economic development and public safety.”