KEY ADDRESS BY DR. FIDEL CASTRO RUZ, PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLIC OF CUBA, = AT THE RALLY PROTESTING AND REPUDIATING THE BLOCKADE, THE SLANDERS, THE = LIES AND THREATS OF PRESIDENT BUSH HELD AT MAJOR GENERAL CALIXTO GARCIA = SQUARE, IN HOLGUIN PROVINCE, ON JUNE 1, 2002
Dear compatriots from Holguin, Granma, Las Tunas and from all of Cuba:

On May 20, the day of the shameful show in Miami, it was ironic to = listen to Mr. W. Bush claim strongly for independence and freedom, not = for Puerto Rico but for Cuba; and to talk much about democracy, not for $=$ Florida but for Cuba. Mr. W. made a special point of defending private = property, as if it did not exist in Cuba.

I then realized that years pass. The days are really far now when a man = spoke from his wheelchair with a soft voice and a persuasive accent. He = spoke as a President of the United States of America and he inspired = respect. It was Franklin Delano Roosevelt. He did not speak like a = showoff or a thug, nor was the United States the hegemonic hyperpower it = is today.

At that time, Ethiopia had been occupied. The bloody Spanish Civil War = had begun. China was being invaded and nazi-fascism was a threat to the = world. Roosevelt, who I think was a real statesman, was striving to = steer his country away from a dangerous isolationism.

I was then a sixth or seventh grader. I was 12 or 13 years old. I had = been born deep in the countryside, where there was no electricity. = Sometimes the only way to get there was riding a horse through very = muddy dirt roads. Back then, I spent most of the year in a rigid and $=$ segregationist boarding school in Santiago --that is, in sexual = apartheid, where the boys were kept at great distance from the girls, in = schools that were light-years away from each other=97 with several = interspersed holidays and a longer vacation in summer time when I came $=$ to Biran.

Those of us who were privileged could have shoes, clothes = and be well fed; however, a sea of poverty surrounded us. I don=92t know $=$ how large is Mr. W=92s Texas ranch. I do remember that my father had = over 24,700 acres of farmland. Of course, that meant hardly anything as = extensive areas, between 272,710 and 284,245 acres, surrounded the $=$ family land owned by the West Indies Sugar Company and the United Fruit = Company.

I remember that when it was announced that the President of $=$ the United States would speak it was tantamount to saying that God would = speak. And it was only natural, since everything came from there: the = beautiful, the good and the useful things, from a razor blade to a = locomotive; from a postcard of the Statue of Liberty to one of those = Western films, which fascinated both children and adults. =20

Moreover, $=93 i t$ was from there that our freedom and independence had $=$ come $=94$. That was what the dozens of thousands of farm laborers and $=$ farmers with no land of their own were told in those areas where they $=$ could only work part of the year cleaning or cutting sugar cane. They $=$ went hungry and barefoot, dressed in rags and lived in terror of the $=$ =91rural guard=92 --a special force created by the administrators of $=$ the country and armed with Springfield rifles and long and thin machetes = that became famous. They also used to wear big hats and ride $=$ seven-foot-Texas horses that scared with their imposing sizes our $=$ undernourished workers ruthlessly suppressed by those guards, if they as = much as threatened to revolt or go on strike.

In those immensely extensive fields, where there were huts, = thatched-roof shacks, impoverished villages and sugar mills, it was hard = to find a single very poor classroom for the 200 or 300 children who = lived in the area; there were no books, very few school materials and $=$ sometimes not even a teacher. It was only in the hamlets that sprang up = around the big sugar mills that there were one or two physicians who = basically cared for the families of the foreign sugar companies=92 local = managers and senior operatives.

On the other hand, a rather strange character could be easily found = everywhere. He had no more than a third or a fourth grade of grammar = school, but that meant being practically a wise man as compared to the $=$ masses of illiterates. He was often a godfather of somebody=92s child = and an occasional visitor of the families living in the countryside. He = was in charge of things related to elections. He obtained the peoples=92 = ID cards and the promise of their votes; he was the politician=92s = crony. $=20$

The people in the countryside did not intend to sell their votes, but = rather help $=93$ their friend=94. With few exceptions, the candidates with $=$ most money in their chests, who could hire more political cronies, won = the races either for national legislative office or for other county or $=$ provincial elective positions. If any of those elections was intended to = change the President, --never the political or social system, which was = unthinkable-- and if there was any conflict of interests, it was the = rural guard that decided who the new leaders would be.

Most of our people were either illiterate or semi-illiterate and they $=$ depended on a miserable job arbitrarily handled by an employer or an = elected official. The people had no choice, as they even lacked the $=$ minimum indispensable knowledge to decide on the increasingly complex $=$ issues of this world.

As for the history of our homeland, they only knew the legend passed = down by the grandparents and the parents about past heroic struggles = fought in the colonial days; eventually, it was fortunate that it was = that way. As for the traditional political parties, where the = oligarchies that served the empire prevailed, how could our people = understand them? Who could teach them? Where could they read about it? = With what alphabet? How could that information be passed on?

The brilliant and heroic effort of the leftist intellectuals of the $=$ time, who made remarkable progress under those circumstances, clashed = with the insurmountable walls of a new imperial system and the centuries = old experience of the ruling classes to keep the peoples oppressed, = exploited, confused and divided.

The only property right known by most Cubans before 1959 was the right = of the big foreign companies and their allies of the national oligarchy = to own enormous amounts of farmland in our country, as well as the = country $=92$ s natural resources and biggest factories, the crucial public $=$ services, the banks, the storage facilities, the ports, the hospitals = and the private schools that served with excellence a negligible = minority of privileged population. $=20$

As fate would have it, I was honored to be born precisely in = the territory of this province, in a place that is 33.5 miles in $a=$ straight line from this Plaza, but which is very close to my memory, = hardly ten millimeters or ten seconds from my mind.

In those enormous sugar cane fields, I could only see dozens = of thousands of farmers with no land to tilt or sharecroppers paying = huge rents but without any contracts to back the arrangement, and = constantly threatened and evicted by those riders of Texan horses.

In the cities, very few owned their dwellings for which they = had to pay very high rents. I never saw hospitals or schools for $=$ ordinary people and their children; I did not see brigades of doctors = and teachers. I only saw extreme poverty, injustice and hopelessness = everywhere. The Cuban people had been confiscated and stripped of any $=$ property.

It was imperative to resume the struggle. The chains had to = be broken. A deep revolution was indispensable. We had to be willing to = either win or die for it. And we decided to fight. $=20$

The socialist revolution has created in Cuba more property = owners than all those created by capitalism throughout centuries. Today, = hundreds of thousands of peasant families own their land, for which they $=$ do not even pay taxes. Others have it in usufruct, free of charge, and = they exploit it either individually or in cooperatives; they are the $=$ owners of the machinery, the workshops, the livestock and other goods. = But, most important of all is that the Revolution gave the people the $=$ property of their own country. What the Revolution eradicated was the = property of the basic means of production, of the financial institutions $=$ and of other crucial services which were in the hands of those who = plundered and exploited the people --and made fortunes on the workers=92 = sweat-- or that only served the rich and the privileged, leaving the = poor and the black people out.

The nostalgia over their property that the leader of an = imperial government might feel could be overcome by seeing that, in $=$ addition to the farmers, millions of families in the cities presently $=$ own their dwellings, for which they do not even pay taxes.

Out of a historical necessity to leave behind a legacy of = underdevelopment, Cuba shares with foreign companies those productions $=$ that it would not have access to with its own technologies and funds, = but no international financial institution or foreign private capital =

Nor does a single penny end up in Castro=92s pockets or $=$ those of his followers. No senior Cuban revolutionary leader has a = dollar in a bank, or a personal bank account in hard currency in cuba or = anywhere else. None of them can be bribed. The hundreds of foreign = companies doing business in Cuba today know that very well. None of our = leaders is a millionaire like the President of the United States, whose = monthly wage is almost twice that of all the members of the state = Council and the Council of Ministers in a year. None can be included in = the long list of Mr. W=92s neoliberal friends in Latin America who are = Olympic champions of misappropriation and theft since the few who do not = steal from the public coffers and state taxes steal from the poor and = the hungry the surplus value of their work while killing hundreds of = thousands of Latin American children every year whose lives could be = saved. That is the system that Mr. W. longs to impose on Cuba as a = model. His insults are unwarranted, thus, he should not complain from = our tough responses.

The end of the exploitation of human beings and true $=$ equality and justice is, and will be, the objective of a Revolution that = will never cease to be what it is.

The work of the Revolution has been remarkable all over the $=$ country, and huge in the dear and heroic eastern region, which was the = poorest and most backward. Of the five eastern provinces, the three = --Holguin, Granma and Las Tunas-- that have sent more than $400,000=$ combative and enthusiastic people to this rally, have attained in a few = years social and human achievements unparalleled in the world.

Some data of what they had before and what they have after = the triumph of the Revolution:

Infant mortality rate: before, over 100 per one thousand $=$ live births; today, 5.9, well below the United States.

Life expectancy at birth: before, 57 years; today, 76.
Number of doctors: before, 344; today, 10, 334.
Health units: before, 46; today, 4,006.

Hospital beds: before, 1,470; today, over 12,000.
Schoolteachers: before, 1,682; today, 77,479.
Universities: before, 0; today, 12.
Illiteracy rate: before, $40.3 \%$ today, $0.2 \%$.
Grammar school graduates: before, $10 \%$ of only 34 percent of $=$ children in school age who attended public school; today, one hundred = percent of children attend grammar school and 99.9\% graduate.

TV sets for audiovisual education: before, 0; today, 13,394.
PCs for computer science education from kindergarten to = sixth grade: 5,563 that benefit 237,510 children.

Over 27,000 youths between the ages of 17 and 29 , who had no $=$ jobs, are studying middle and higher education in recently established = Schools for the Comprehensive Education of the Youth, for which they = receive remuneration. $=20$

These three provinces have 62 museums, 62 cultural centers, = 21 art galleries and 72 libraries.

Every child in Cuba, regardless of his parents=92 income and = the color of his skin, has high quality health care services ensured = from his birth until the end of his life. The same applies to education, = from kindergarten up until graduation as a PhD, and that absolutely free = of charge.

No other country in Latin America gets even remotely close to Cuba in = any of these indicators. In Cuba, there is not one single child begging = in the streets or working to make a living instead of attending school. = Nor are there narcotics that poison and destroy teenagers and young = people.

This is not a tyranny, as Mr. W. has claimed. It is justice, = it is true equality among human beings, it is general learning and = culture without which there is not, there cannot be nor will there ever = be true independence, freedom and democracy anywhere on Earth.

Mr. W. should be ashamed to call those societies where corruption, = inequality and injustice prevail, and which are being destroyed by the = neoliberal model, examples of independence, freedom and democracy!

For Mr. W. democracy only exists where money solves = everything and where those who can afford a $$ 25,000$ a plate dinner $--a n=$ insult to the billions of people living in the poor, hungry and = underdeveloped world-- are the ones called to solve the problems of = society and the world, the same that will determine the fate of a great = nation like the United States, and the rest of the planet.

Don=92t you be a fool, Mr. W. Show some respect for the $=$ minds of people who are capable of thinking. Read some of the $100=$ thousand letters sent to you by our children. Do not insult Jose Marti. = Do not invoke his sacred name in vain. Stop using his phrases out of = context in your speeches. Show some respect for others and for yourself.

The criminal blockade he has promised to tighten will only = multiply the honor and glory of our people against which their wicked = plans will smash, I assure you.

Compatriots: In the face of dangers and threats, long live today more = than ever the Socialist Revolution!

Homeland or Death! =20
We shall overcome! $=20$
