June/July News from the National Center for Children in Poverty

The whatsnew@nccp.org listserv provides subscribers with monthly updates on the research, activities, and overall work of the National Center for Children in Poverty.

Welcome to the June/July 2002 listserv. Here's what's new at NCCP:

- 1. New policy brief series focuses on improving children's economic security by supporting parental employment
- 2. Check out NCCP's Early Childhood Poverty: A Statistical Profile UPDATED!
- 3. Check out NCCP's Child Poverty Fact Sheet UPDATED!
- 4. NCCP Advisor LynNell Hancock Discusses American Attitudes Toward the Poor
- 5. We want your feedback and suggestions for improvement!

Improving Children's Economic Security: Research Findings About Increasing Family Income Through Employment (updated)

This important policy brief series focuses on state policy options that have the potential to improve children's economic security by increasing family income. More specifically, the series examines policies that seek to increase family income by encouraging, supporting, and rewarding work. Click here to read the series introduction.

Early Childhood Poverty: A Statistical Profile (updated)

Inadequate nutrition, environmental toxins, diminished interaction due to maternal depression, trauma and abuse, lower quality child care, and parental substance abuse. These are some of the risk factors associated with poverty in early childhood. Click here to learn why the first years of life are more important than had been thought for children's emotional and intellectual development, and why millions of children in the United States are at developmental risk.

Child Poverty Fact Sheet

Did you know that America's children are almost twice as likely to live in poverty as Americans in any other age group (16 percent compared to 9-10 percent for working and retired adults)? Click here to learn more.

Pt.

NCCP Advisor LynNell Hancock Discusses American Attitudes Toward the Poor

Americans have long felt ambivalent toward those in poverty and who should qualify for government assistance. LynNell Hancock, author of Hands to Work: The Stories of Three Families Racing the Welfare Clock and assistant professor in the Graduate School of Journalism at Columbia University, discusses the various issues and shifting attitudes of both policymakers and the public in responding to the poor. Hancock is a member of NCCP's Council of Advisors, an advisory board that helps guide the work of NCCP. Click here to view a 5-minute interview with LynNell Hancock.

Subscriber Survey for NCCP's Listserv

In an effort to serve your needs better, we ask that you please take a moment to complete the form below.

We are not collecting any identifying information, nor will your participation in this survey include you on any additional mailing lists, within NCCP or otherwise. If you have questions about what we will do with this information or about our privacy policy in general, please contact webmaster@nccp.org.

Your Title:

Organization Type: Academic

Do you prefer HTML or plain text versions of the e-mail newsletter?

Plain TextHTML

	O Not Sure
Do you currently receive any NCCP mailings through U.S. mail?	◯ Yes ◯ No
If so, do you prefer hardcopy or e-mail mailings from NCCP?	🔘 Hardcopy 🔘 E-Mail
Do you forward NCCP information to your colleagues?	🔘 Yes 🔘 No
Do you know anyone else who would be interested in receiving our mailings? Please provide their email addresses here.

If they'd prefer to subscribe themselves, please let them know that they can join the listserv by emailing whatsnew-request@nccp.org with "subscribe" in the subject line!

Further suggestions or comments regarding NCCP's mailing list:
How often do you visit NCCP's web site ( www.nccp.org )?	Never
How often do you download or print full publications from www.nccp.org?	Never
Is there anything that you don't currently see on www.nccp.org that you would find useful?
	Submit

To unsubscribe from this list, send an e-mail message to: whatsnew-request@nccp.org, and put "unsubscribe" in the subject line.

Thank you.