FUTURE ELECTRONICS TO BUILD $45 MILLION DISTRIBUTION FACILITY IN MISSISSIPPI

Distribution facility in Southaven will employ more than 200

JACKSON, Miss., - Future Electronics has announced plans to build a $45 million distribution facility in Southaven that will employ more than 200 people.

“We are delighted to welcome our newest corporate citizen to Mississippi. Future Electronics’ decision to locate in Mississippi sends a strong message that Mississippi can participate in the global market. Our pro-business and legislative environment makes Mississippi a competitor for companies looking to expand or relocate operations,” said Governor Ronnie Musgrove.

“We have been working hard to bring quality, high-paying jobs to Mississippi. Businesses are investing in our state. We appreciate the quality jobs and development Future Electronics bring to Southaven,” commented Robert J. Rohrlack, Jr., executive director, Mississippi Development Authority.

Future Electronics is a world-class leader and innovator in the marketing and distribution of semiconductors and passive, interconnect and electro-mechanical components. They operate from 220 offices in 35 countries in The Americas, Europe and Asia.
