Governor Musgrove Proclaims “Mississippi Health Awareness Day”

Jackson, MS – Governor Ronnie Musgrove today signed a proclamation naming Friday, September 21, 2001, as “Mississippi Health Awareness Day.” The proclamation is in conjunction with health fairs, a teen summit and health forum produced by the Community Organization for Health Awareness.

“The events surrounding Mississippi Health Awareness Day will address those issues affecting our health, and what we can do to bring about positive change,” Musgrove said. “The people of Mississippi are facing serious health problems, and we need to be part of solving those problems.”

Musgrove spoke at a press conference with Dr. Samuel Okoye, President of the Community Organization for Health Awareness.
