Governor Musgrove Meets with Jordanian Ambassador

(Jackson, MS) – Governor Ronnie Musgrove met today with Ambassador Karim Kwar, Ambassador of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan to the United States of America and the Republic of Mexico. The meeting was held in Musgrove’s capitol office.

“I was honored to welcome Ambassador Kwar to Mississippi and to share with him the great progress we’re making in areas such as education and economic development,” Musgrove said. “We also discussed the wide array of Mississippi products exported to Jordan.”

Major exports from the state include woodpulp products, fabrics, agricultural products, furniture and machinery.

Ambassador Kwar was appointed on July 1, 2002. He is well known as a leader in the communications and technology sectors in Jordan. He received his undergraduate degree in management, finance and computer science from Boston College.
