Governor Musgrove Appoints Fred D. Johnson to the Mississippi State Parole Board

(Jackson, MS) – Governor Ronnie Musgrove has appointed Fred D. Johnson of Corinth to the Mississippi State Parole Board commencing May 1, 2003.

“Fred Johnson’s background in law enforcement, business, and community organizations will provide a strong commitment to the Parole Board to uphold the laws of Mississippi,” said Musgrove. “With over twenty-five years of law enforcement experience, Fred will provide strong leadership as the Parole Board reviews the eligibility of convicted offenders for parole.”

Johnson, former Chief of Police for the city of Corinth for sixteen years, is currently serving as the Town Marshall for Farmington and serves as the second vice-president for the Mississippi Association of Chiefs of Police. In addition, Johnson served on the Mississippi Commission on a Uniform Youth Court System in 1988–89. Johnson is actively involved in the Boy Scouts of America, Corinth Rotary Club, and the Mississippi Association of Chiefs of Police.
