Riley joins JBHM Education Group

“We are excited about our newest addition to the staff of the JBHM Education Group,” announced Mike Walters, Ed.D, Director of JBHM Education Group. “Former Education Policy Liaison to Governor Ronnie Musgrove, Kelly Riley will be joining JBHM Education Group in January. With Kelly on board, we will be able to further serve our clients.”

Kelly Riley served as the Education Policy Liaison for the Governor’s office during 2000 – 2003. She was instrumental in researching, developing and implementing educational policy initiatives. She provided the operational support for the historic funding of “Education First” during the 2003 Legislative Session.

Prior to assisting the Governor’s office, Kelly worked at the Mississippi Joint Legislative Committee on Performance Evaluation and Expenditure Review (PEER). She was steadily promoted from Library assistant in 1988 to Senior Evaluator in 1998.

“I have seen the work that JBHM Education Group has accomplished in the poorest districts of Mississippi, along with other areas throughout the state,” explained Riley. “They have seen the need and have brought solutions that have been implemented. Those same districts have raised their test scores and are better serving those communities. I am excited to join the team.”

JBHM Education Group is an educational management services company operating in Mississippi with a service area including Louisiana, Tennessee and Alabama. JBHM Education Group, along with JBHM Facility Resource Group, is a subsidiary of JBHM Inc.
