

“The young people of our state are our greatest natural resource, and I’m proud of the tremendous work they’re doing to help build a strong future. With the promise and potential of people like Casey Finch, there’s no end to what can happen here in Mississippi.”