

Text for JJ:

The Best View of the Future Is from the Classroom

While creating jobs for the people of this state has become a trademark of my administration, building a future for the children of this state through quality schools is my personal passion. Our work to improve education for Mississippi's children is paying off. A teacher pay raise package is lifting the average salary from 49th to 19th in the nation. Internet-accessible computers will be placed in every public school classroom this year. Test scores are up.

Education is where we build our success, and the building is going well.